Thomas Lewis joined the Boston Consulting Group (BCG) in 1975. He has had a very international career with BCG and has consulted for the firm’s clients out of its offices in Boston, London, Munich, Dusseldorf, Hong Kong, Seoul and Milan. His leadership roles have included responsibility for the firm’s Asia-Pacific and Italian practices. While in Germany, he was closely involved in building the Nordic practice and he established and led for many years the firm’s global "Corporate Development" practice. He served on the firm’s worldwide Executive Committee for 10 years.

Thomas Lewis has recently developed considerable experience working with the United Nations, being one of the co-leaders of the long-term pro-bono partnership BCG has with the World Food Programme.

Mr Lewis grew up in Zimbabwe. His education comprised an undergraduate degree in agricultural economics and an MBA. Prior to joining BCG he was the head of planning for a diversified food and services group in Southern Africa. He is married to Helga and they have two sons now studying at university.
