Situation Update

- A WFP, UNICEF, FAO and National Bureau of Statistics assessment of the urban food security situation in Juba found 51 percent of households to be food insecure—more than double the level in 2015. Households reported high prices of basic commodities and fuel with a majority of households resorting to coping negative mechanisms, such as skipping meals and reducing food consumption. The results of the assessment have helped to inform WFP’s urban cash pilot programme through which 45,000 vulnerable people in Juba will receive cash support and skills training.

WFP Response

- In Northern Bahr el Ghazal and Warrap states, a WFP assessment team is looking at the feasibility of expanding the use of cash transfers in the two states, particularly during the harvest season. The use of cash transfers will help to reduce the logistics requirements of moving food by road.

Food and Nutrition Assistance

- WFP and partners are planning for the resumption of voucher distributions at the UN Protection of Civilian (PoC) sites in Juba. Vouchers will be gradually reinstated once protection concerns are addressed, with the intention of moving to a full voucher entitlement in the equivalent value of in-kind food assistance.
- In response to a confluence of shocks and vulnerability, WFP is providing assistance to an estimated 35,000 people in Jikmir, Makak and Mandeng (Upper Nile).
- On 22 November, an Integrated Rapid Response mission of WFP and UNICEF teams deployed to Ngoku, south-west of Wau (Western Bahr el Ghazal) to provide food assistance as well as WASH, vaccination and other services to households affected by ongoing insecurity.

- In the past week, Very High Frequency (VHF) radio training for security guards was completed in Rumbek. 48 handheld radios were programmed for Danish Refugee Council, OXFAM, Agency for Technical Cooperation and Development (ACTED), Intersos, OCHA and WFP.
